Areas of Practice:

Prior to returning to private practice in 1999, Ms. Siderius was the Deputy Attorney General for the Office of the Colorado Attorney General where she managed and supervised the legal representation of the Department of Regulatory Agencies, Department of Agriculture and other state agencies. While at the Attorney General's office she prosecuted professional and organizational liability cases and provided general counsel legal work to state agencies. She has also done appellate work in the state appellate courts. In previous private practice she did commercial litigation and was a member of the Department of Justice Panel of Bankruptcy Trustees, liquidating Chapter 7 estates. She continues her administrative, health care regulatory matters and professional liability practice as a member of McConnell Siderius Fleischner Houghtaling & Craigmile, LLC. She also is visiting faculty at the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs, teaching health law and ethics to both undergraduate and graduate students since 1999.
